Travel Diary

Quick Guide - keep this handy while you travel

1. Getting started

Travel Diary keeps a record of the places you visit: a title, a country and city, a GPS pin, and any notes, photos or links you want to add.

- Go to the Trips tab and tap the + button to create a trip (give it a name and dates).
- Tap the + button on the Home tab to add a new entry: a place, a moment, anything worth remembering.

2. Setting the location

- When you create a new entry, the app tries to detect your GPS position automatically.
- You can also tap anywhere on the map to place the pin, or drag the pin to fine-tune it.
- Country and city fields update automatically based on where the pin is.

NEW - center on my location: while editing an entry, tap the target-shaped button on top of the map to instantly move the pin to where you are right now. Handy if you are adding the entry later and want to re-sync it with your current position.

3. Notes and photos

- Open any entry and tap "add note" to attach a photo, a short text, or a link.
- You can add as many notes as you like to the same entry, at any time.

4. Browsing your diary

- Home: shows entries near you (or your most recent ones) and lets you search.
- Trips: browse all your entries trip by trip.
- Explore: browse by country, or by tag.

5. The map

- Tap the Map tab to see all your entries pinned on a map.
- Tap the expand button on any map to view it fullscreen.
- Tap "download offline map" on a trip or country page to save that area for offline use.

NEW - place names in English: the map now also shows country and city names in English, even in places that use a different alphabet (for example Thailand or Japan). Street-level names may still appear in the local language when you zoom in close.

6. Search

- Use the search box on the Home tab to find an entry by its title, its text, or a #tag.

7. Sharing an entry

- "share for travel diary": sends the entry as a file that another Travel Diary user can import.
- "share as readable file": sends the entry as a normal page anyone can open, even without the app.

8. Backup and restore

- Go to Explore > Backup and Restore to download a full backup (.zip) of everything, including photos.
- Keep that file somewhere safe (a cloud drive, your computer, or emailed to yourself).
- Restoring a backup replaces ALL current data on this device - use it with care.

Good to know

- The app works offline once your data and maps are loaded.
- Set a trip as "active" so new entries are pre-filled with it while you are travelling.
